PEACEMAKER

A bloody good time from the gurus at GONZO

History, swordplay and emotions collide in this thrilling new anime from fan-favorite studio GONZO. Set near the end of the tumultuous and bloody Edo period (circa 1860s), Peacemaker stars a diminutive young swordsman whose heart and courage far outweigh his small stature and burgeoning skills. Tetsunosuke desperately wants to join the rough-and-tumble Shinsengumi, a brutal gang that won't hesitate to spill blood in pursuit of their cause. His reason? To avenge the murder of his parents. Although Tetsunosuke has been warned away from the group by his big brother—who's already a member—his resolution won't falter. In fact, Tetsunosuke decides to directly challenge master swordsman Souji Okita, a captain in the Shinsengumi who's infamous for his overly aggressive style.

Good thing the kid's got gumption, because Okita is ultimately charmed by Tetsunosuke's bravado and allows the young'un to join the group. And that's where things get interesting...

A featured title in Anime Network's Action Zone programming block, Peacemaker is sure to thrill anyone who likes sword-slashing action mixed with subtle emotion. The show isn't scared to weave together slapstick comedy and bloody violence—and it certainly won't back away from those emotional moments that ground this fantastical show with a healthy dose of reality. Although battle seems to be the hallmark of Peacemaker, the show is also about love—or, more precisely, the quest for salvation and meaning during a violent and challenging era.

"Peacemaker is one of the titles our fan base has been anticipating most," says Chris Nelson, director of programming for Anime Network. "Any time we have a chance to air a new title from GONZO, we're excited. This period tale of samurai action is beautifully told and is sure to appeal to fans of the Samurai X OVAs. The color palette and character designs are stunning, and the animation is flawless."

Will Tetsunosuke be able to overcome his own drive for revenge and eventually find happiness? Will he ever be able to prove himself to his Shinsengumi bosses? Or will our young hero simply face more heartache and pain as his path crosses others who are fated to suffer some tough times ahead? Tune in to Anime Network to find out—and after you get hooked on the show, be sure to head to your local Suncoast store to pick up the DVD from ADV Films (on sale this October)!

BLAST OFF

LAUNCH OF A NETWORK

On July 27, 2004, Anime Network launched as a full-time linear network. Contest winner Janine Hwang (center) of Orlando, Fla., pulled a lever to officially inaugurate the network uplink.

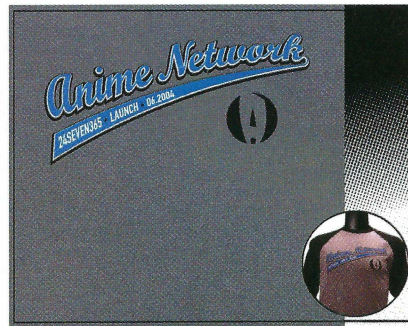

Like the first appearance of MTV's moon man and numerous other special TV moments, Anime Network wanted to start its full-time linear schedule with the perfect piece of memorable media. The goal: to set the right tone for the nascent network, inviting both hardcore anime fans and newbie viewers into Anime Network's exciting environment.

"We reflected on the idea of transmission—all of the physical elements and digital bytes coming from Japan, to our headquarters in Houston, and then being transmitted to our audience via satellite," says Chris Nelson, director of programming. "There are so many individual processes in bringing this channel to life—things like media being digitized and translated and packaged and encoded."

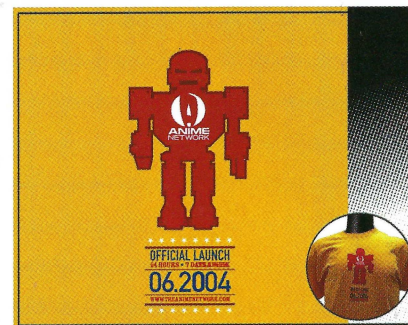

Working with art director Chris Hawley, visual-effects artist Alan Demafles and 3D artist Daniel Scruggs, the creative team used Hawley's vector graphic launch logo (pictured on the next page) as a point of departure. Expanding on the visual metaphor of a rocket launch, the team designed a 3D universe containing the elements that make up the new network, including planets designed to reflect the main programming blocks.

The animation is augmented by a soundtrack created by Anime Network sound designer Matt Crawford. The dense audio backdrop includes layers of Japanese and English dialogue along with a host of original effects created to transport the viewer on the 90-second journey.

The entire launch movie can be downloaded at www.theanimenetwork.com. Check it out!

REVOLUTION'S SECOND COMING

Hot off his second live performance in the US,
T.M.Revolution talks with Anime Network Quarterly

His name is Takanori Nishikawa (aka T.M.Revolution, short for "Takanori Makes Revolution"), and although you may not recognize his name if you haven't been plugged into the J-pop scene recently, you've probably heard some of his work. Though he's been in the Japanese pop music scene since '96, it wasn't until "HEART OF SWORD - Yoakemae (before dawn)-" became the opening theme for Rurouni Kenshin that US audiences began to take notice of the enigmatic singer. Since then he's released several albums in the US, and he even sang "INVOKE," the first opening theme for Mobile Suit Gundam SEED. He recently performed to a crowd of 3,500 people at the Pacific Media Expo in LA, and afterwards we had the opportunity to chat him up.

ANQ: What do you think of the reception your music has received from US fans?

TMR: The fact that I have a not-so-small fan base here in the US makes me very happy. Also, I'm proud of all the activities that I do in this country.

ANQ: This is your second time performing for an American audience. Do you notice any differences between concertgoers in the US and those in Japan?

TMR: I think the key difference is the way they enjoy the music; in Japan, there's a sense of togetherness among the audience, and their reaction to the music is kind of synchronized. You might need to come see my concert in Japan to fully understand what I mean, because in America each person enjoys the music in his or her own way.

ANQ: What's next for T.M.Revolution? What are you working on now?

TMR: After my concert at PMX, I'll go right back to my Japan tour that goes on until August and will then appear at a summer festival. I'll also have to start recording soon for a couple of domestic (Japan) releases due out later this year.

ANQ: You've previously mentioned that you were into RahXephon and Gundam SEED. What anime are you into now?

TMR: I enjoy watching the Ghost in the Shell: Stand Alone Complex TV series. It's now available on DVD, so I bought all the discs that are out. I also like Overman King Gainer, which is created by the director of the first Mobile Suit Gundam series. I have that on DVD, too, and I watch them at home.

ANQ: What bands' CDs, American or Japanese, do you have in your CD player right now?

TMR: Today I was listening to Trapt. Hoobastank is also one of my favorites.

ANQ: If you could collaborate with an American musician—a dream collaboration—who would you most want to work with and why?

TMR: Hmm, that's hard to say. There are so many great artists here...[pauses] OK, if there's anyone who's interested [in collaborating with me], please give me a call. I'd be happy to work with an artist in any musical genre.

ANQ: Do you have a final message you'd like to share with US fans?

TMR: I'm so happy that I got a chance to come back and perform in the US after last year's concert. I'll try to get more people interested in my music by coming to the US as often as possible. Also, as you might know already, I provided the theme song for Mobile Suit Gundam SEED, which is now on Cartoon Network, so I hope that will introduce my music to a broader audience. Thank you for your continued support, and I hope to see you again soon!

Dear Terri-chan,
Don't worry, we would never neglect our better halves. In fact, we recently picked up Gravitation to run on Anime Network—and as you probably know, Gravitation is all about cute boys. Enjoy!

Dear Anime Network,
Thank you for the first copy of Anime Network Quarterly. I wish Anime Network would go full-time in my neighborhood...but, alas, I live in Rhode Island, and nothing that exciting seems to happen here. Maybe I'll move to Illinois just so I can watch anime around the clock. Sigh.

Tom Rybicki
Middletown, Rhode Island

Dear Tom,
Whoa! Don't give up on Rhode Island yet! Have you called your local cable company and told them how much you want Anime Network? Well? Have you? Because if you haven't, well...what are you waiting for? While you're at it, log on to www.theanimenetwork.com to fill out a form to demand your anime. And keep your eyes on our Web site for the latest updates on different cable carriers across the nation. Who knows? If enough of you demand your anime, we might just be in your town soon enough!

ABENOBASHI: MAGICAL SHOPPING ARCADE

Sasshi and Arumi are two country bumpkins from Osaka with a problem: The shopping arcade they call home is about to be torn down. But when they unlock the district's mystical powers, the pair is whisked to whacked-out, themed versions of their former reality. Only by traversing these alternate realities can they ever hope to return home!

GUNDAM SEED

The latest in this long-running franchise, SEED has pushed Gundam to new heights of popularity in Japan. Now it's available here on TV, DVD and in manga form. Those who prefer to take their mecha action at their own pace should check this out, especially since it does such a great job introducing SEED's complicated continuity.

FRUITS BASKET

Maybe you'd call your family a bunch of animals, but the members of the Sohma clan really are animals. When hugged by members of the opposite sex, they transform into the animals of the zodiac. How will things change when Yuki's precocious classmate Tohru moves in with the feuding family and attempts to clean up their act?

D.N.ANGEL

It's tough enough having a schoolboy crush—but what if you turn into a phantom thief every time you see the girl you like? Such is the quirky situation that plagues Daisuke. Naturally, he'll be fine if only Risa falls in love with him...but she can't even see him when he transforms! Don't miss this romantic fantasy from famed creator Yukiru Sugisaki.

TRIGUN MAXIMUM

Join lone gunman Vash the Stampede as he wanders the globe, meeting and defeating members of the notorious Gung Ho Guns in search of his maniacal brother, Knives. Trailing this humanoid typhoon on his action-packed quest are the dead-eye priest Wolfwood and insurance agents Millie Thompson and Meryl Stryfe.

NEGIMA

The latest from Love Hina creator Ken Akamatsu, Negima is a madcap comedy packed to the gills with gorgeous gals! The twist? Ten-year-old wizard Negi T. Silverberg gets a job at a "normal" all-girl high school, where he's not allowed to use his magic powers! Yet this young professor is often forced to use his special skills just to survive the daily grind.

THE PRINCE OF TENNIS

Who needs giant mecha, alien invaders or superhuman schoolgirls when you have the terrifically talented Ryoma Echizen, a 12-year-old tennis prodigy who plays it cool in life but hot on the court? But don't think this manga is only for sports fans—the action is just as thrilling, and the drama just as juicy even if you've never picked up a racket.

RURONI KENSHIN

It won't be easy for the wandering samurai Himura Kenshin to escape his blood-drenched past as the assassin who single-handedly unified Japan. Rival warriors and nefarious politicians selfishly seek him, as he attempts to settle down with his new friends at the peace-loving Kamiya dojo. Don't miss this best-selling manga.

CON-PLAY

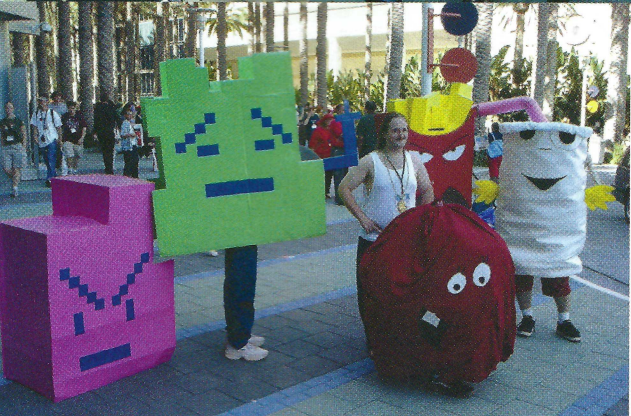

FANS FLOCK TO ANIME EXPO 2004

In the summer of 2004, a record-shattering 25,000 fans from around the globe flocked to the United States' largest Japanese animation convention, Anime Expo 2004, held July 2-5, at the Anaheim Convention Center in Anaheim, California.

Attendees spent their weekend filling up on anime any way they could—by buying things in the huge dealer's room, watching loads of anime in multiple screening rooms, attending creator panels, and indulging in the fine art of cosplay (i.e., dressing up as your favorite character). Check out these pics we snapped of just a few of this year's attendees, then scope the con calendar to find out when the next anime fan gathering is happening near you.

DRAGON BALL Z – THE LOST EPISODES REJECTION V.2

Goku has taken to his new, smaller body without a hitch. But trouble arises on the merchant planet, Imecka. The residents of this strange world are being persecuted by their tyrannical despot. Goku, Trunks, and Pan vow to lift Don Kee's oppressive grip, but soon find out how far the Don will go to stay in power.

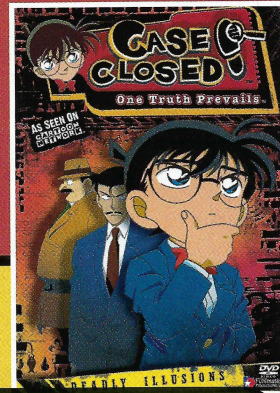

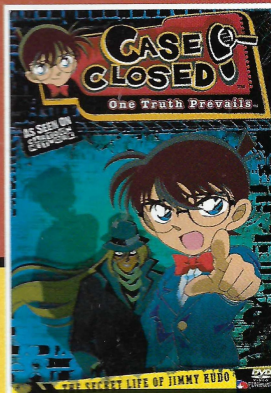

DRAGON BALL Z – BOJACK UNBOUND (UNCUT)

The infamous millionaire X.S. Cash is funding the most amazing martial arts tournament the Universe has ever seen! The four corners of the galaxy compete in a decisive battle to see who gains the right to challenge The Champ! But a ragged band of criminals have a scheme of their own: take over the tournament and conquer the Universe in the process! With Goku incapable of helping eradicate the planet's latest threat, can Gohan summon enough strength to deliver the finishing blow?

BLUE GENDER: THE WARRIOR

A young man named Yuji suffering from a rare disease is put into sleep treatment and hopes that future medicine will cure his illness. However, when Yuji awakens, he finds the world he once knew gone and a brutal struggle to save mankind underway. Can Yuji survive or will he become a victim of The Blue?

CASED CLOSED: THE SECRET LIFE OF JIMMY KUDO S.1 V.1

Within the world of police work exists a surplus of capable detectives, one of them being Jimmy Kudo. But there is something unique about Jimmy . . . he is still in high school! As Jimmy aids in a homicide investigation, two mysterious men assault the super sleuth and feed him an experimental drug, which causes him to shrink. Jimmy must now seek out clues to his assailants as he struggles to keep his secret.

CASED CLOSED: DEADLY ILLUSIONS S.1 V.2

While taking in the scenery away from the hustle and bustle of the big city, Conan, Richard, and Rachel stumble into the middle of a grisly ancient legend. The terrible Mist Goblin has struck again! Without any hard evidence, it looks as though the Mist Goblin has yet again committed the perfect crime. Or is it so perfect after all? The search for clues pointing to the men who shrunk Jimmy's body continues as Conan, with Detective Moore in tow, investigates a strange crime with a most unusual murder weapon. When all the facts are gathered, one truth prevails!
